Summary of Legislation: (Amended) This bill provides that the cost of an autopsy performed on an individual who is a resident of Indiana but not a resident of a county: (1) in which at least one air ambulance provider is located; (2) in which the individual died; and (3) in which the autopsy was performed under the authority of the coroner in the discharge of the coroner's duties, shall be reimbursed to the coroner from the State General Fund.

Effective Date: July 1, 2001.

Explanation of State Expenditures: (Revised) This bill would provide funding for reimbursement of the cost of autopsies ordered by the Coroner or the County Health Officer in instances where an individual resident of another county dies in a county in which an air ambulance provider is located. Currently three counties have an air ambulance located within the county; Marion, Allen, and Fulton counties have helicopter service available. (The air ambulance service based in Rochester is the second helicopter of the Fort Wayne-based Samaritan Service.)

In 1998, the State Board of Health had reports of Coroner-ordered autopsies on 81 Indiana residents who were not residents of Marion County and 43 out-of-county Indiana residents in Allen County. Fulton County had no reports. (The Samaritan helicopter service was not operating in Rochester during 1998.)

The Allen County Coroner's Office reports the cost of an autopsy to be between $1,000 and $1,600 depending on individual circumstances. The Indiana University Forensic Science Department, which is under contract to the Marion County Coroner, reported a similar range although the procedures are not charged on an individual basis under the terms of the contract.

Marion and Allen Counties reported a total of 129 procedures on out-of-county Indiana residents in CY 1998. If the cost of the autopsies is assumed to range between $1,000 and $1,600 per procedure, the cost of this bill would be expected to fall within a range of $129,000 to $206,400 annually. This cost estimate does not address the potential expense associated with processing claims for payment within the Department of Health. This estimate also does not include the impact of the Rochester-based Samaritan helicopter since the service was not started until late last year.

This note will be updated as the Department of Health makes 1999 data available.
